Trust

When asked to distill what is at the heart of the Community Foundation, we often use the word trust. The fundholders, donors, communities, and nonprofits that make up the Foundation are, in their own ways, placing their trust in us. Our Changemaker donors trust us to take on tough challenges that face our state. Our Legacy donors trust us to steward their charitable legacy in a manner that honors their vision and meets future needs in our communities. Our donor advised fundholders trust us to support their giving in a way that maximizes their impact and effectiveness. Our communities trust us to be nimble and responsive. And our nonprofit colleagues trust us to be a good partner to them in their work.

As the Chair and President of the Community Foundation, we take the responsibility of the trust placed in us very seriously. It is the foundation of our Board's governance and approach to our work.

Our biennial report gives us a chance to tell you a few stories behind some of the families who have worked with—and who trust—the Foundation to do meaningful work on behalf of children.

We look forward to sharing your story in the years ahead.

Tom Uhlman
Chair of the Board

Hans Dekker
President

"What I care about most matters to the Community Foundation, and I know they'll do what I ask long into the future."

Invest in the Future of Your Causes

Charitable bequests—or as we call them, legacy funds—enable donors to perpetuate their passion for charitable causes and allow the Foundation to steward their legacy in a way that has the greatest possible impact. Our Board recognizes the importance of its fiduciary duty to honor and implement our donors' wishes and make sure these legacy funds have the greatest impact over time.

Purposeful

The Two River Theater is one of several theaters across New Jersey that has benefited from Diane Dixon's fund. Diane Dixon chose to leave funds with the Community Foundation so we could continue her support for abused women and promotion of local small theater. We know that Diane's interest in these two areas was conscious and purposeful, and our Board and staff have worked assiduously to make sure her wishes are not only realized, but also drive positive change. The Two River Theater is one of several theaters across New Jersey that has benefited from Diane Dixon's fund.

Mission-Driven

The Church in Radburn, a non-denominational church in Fair Lawn, had dwindling membership. The congregants who remained had a creative idea: they would sell the church, endow its assets, and use the dollars to support worthwhile causes. While we knew there were all sorts of local organizations worthy of support, our research and evaluation allowed us to focus on a few causes at the heart of the congregation's original mission—from feeding the hungry to providing after school programming and camperships. The fund enables the Foundation to provide a critical source of support for the community, effectively picking up the mantle of the church itself.

Community-Centered

Saint Clare's Health System has been a centerpiece of the Denville community for years. So when a for-profit healthcare system purchased the hospital, one important task was to find a new home for the Saint Clare's Foundation to carry on its charitable work. After careful consideration, the Foundation's Board decided to entrust the Community Foundation with its legacy. We are now developing a strategy for improving the health and wellness of people in Sussex and Morris counties—effectively extending the good work of the Saint Clare's Foundation and ensuring its continued community role.

"Our students came in September barely scribbling and many speaking few English words," explained one teacher in Elizabeth. Not long after a field trip to the Zimmerli Art Museum in New Brunswick, some nonverbal students began to communicate. "The details in pictures and handwriting show such progress. We are very proud of them."

Invest in the Future of Your Community

Many New Jerseyans have entrusted the Community Foundation to guarantee their philanthropic resources have impact on important causes well into the future. With these funds and dollars, the Community Foundation was able two years ago to launch its Changemaker Initiatives—a series of high-impact interventions designed to solve problems and make New Jersey a better, stronger, safer place for current and successive generations.

Go. See. Learn.

Field Trip New Jersey is our latest Changemaker Initiative. The idea is to close the gap between the proven benefits of culturally enriching field trips (improved test scores, better grades, etc.) and the reality of school budget cuts. Leveraging existing legacy funds and the support of other fundholders and partners such as the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, we launched a philanthropic endowment in 2016 that will expand access to educational field trips to children in low-income communities across New Jersey. This inspired the Victoria Foundation to join with us and create the Pi Chubb Newark Field Trip Fund specifically for Newark's students. The smiles tell the story.

New Pathways

Each of the more than 7,000 unaccompanied child immigrants in New Jersey eventually face a family or immigration court judge. In those moments, the future opportunities for these children—overwhelmed and not speaking the language—are decided. The Community Foundation has committed legacy and other fundholder resources to make certain these children have an attorney at their side—making a judge ten times more likely to rule in their favor. Thanks to talented partners and impassioned attorneys, we are breaking the barriers of language and legalese to make sure these undocumented young people can access the educational and support services critical to their long-term well-being.

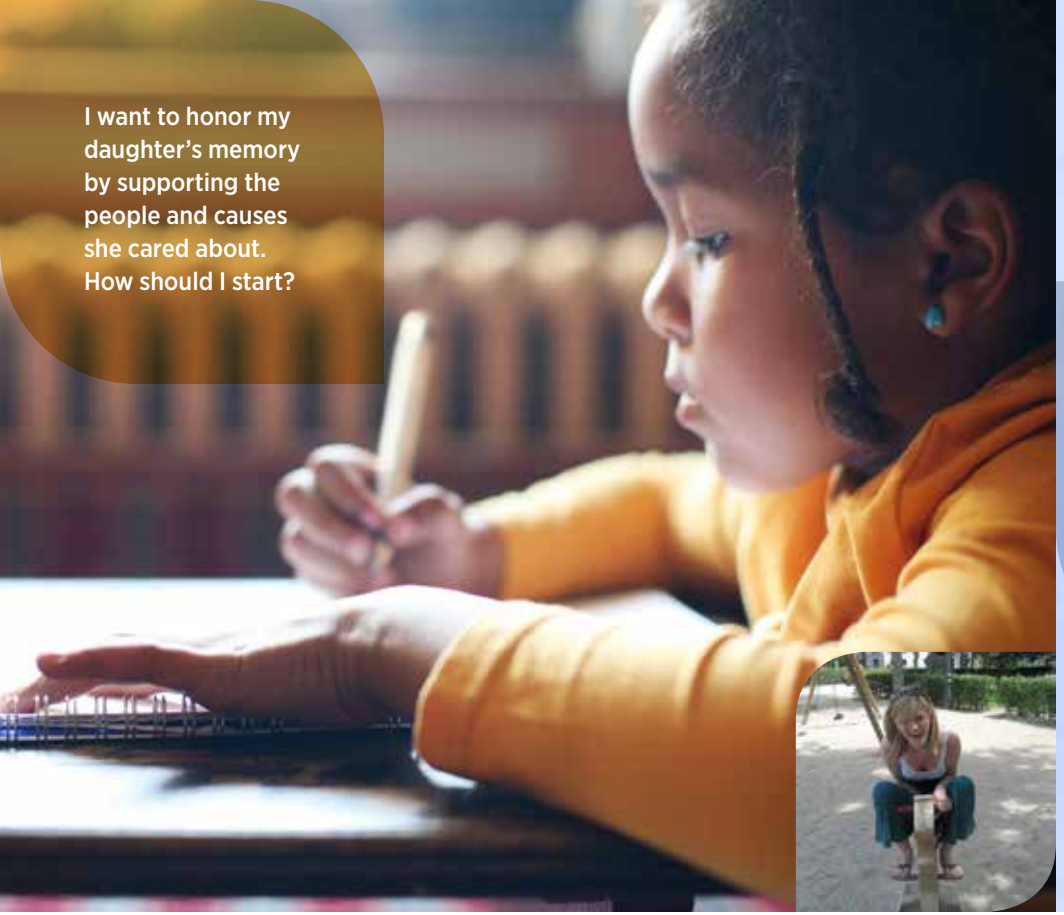
FIELD TRIP NEW JERSEY

"This is the best day ever!" is how one Asbury Park student described her time at Monmouth University's Pollack Theatre and the nearby Seven Presidents Oceanfront Park.

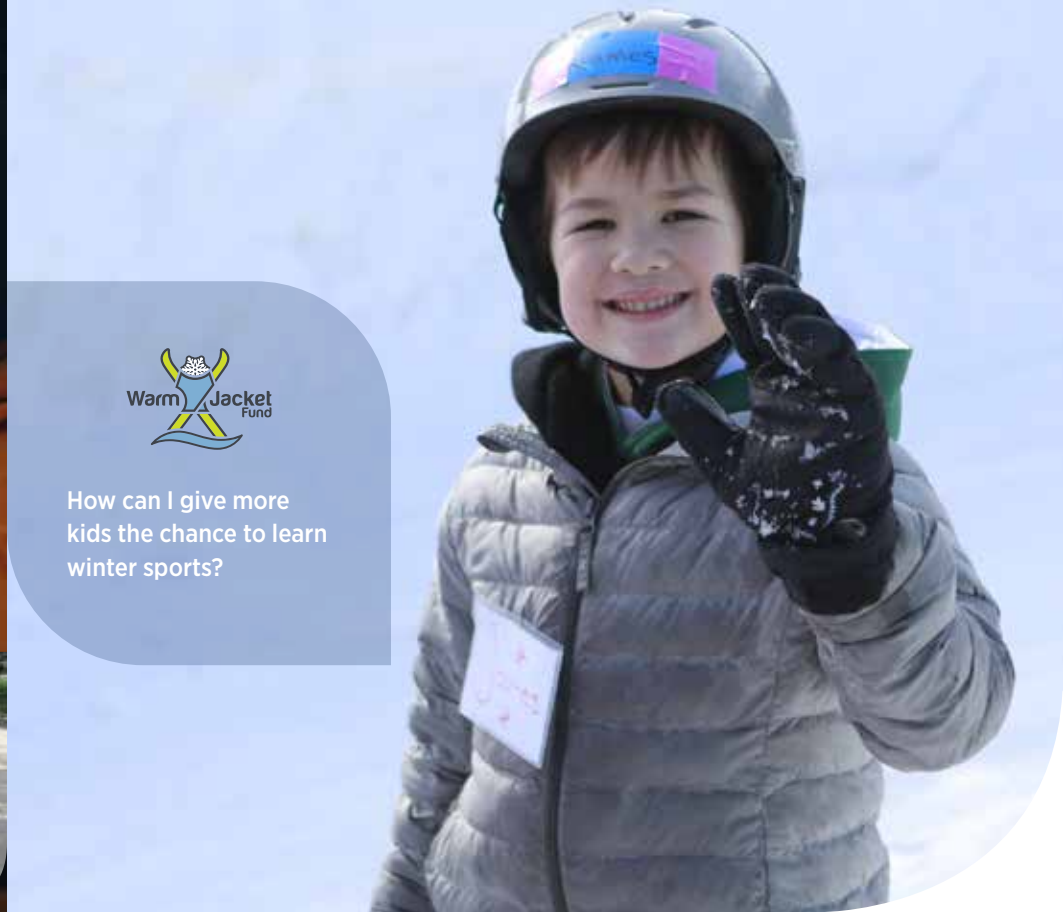
Philanthropic Planning: Putting Ideas into Action

Fundholders at the Community Foundation display a remarkable amount of ingenuity in their grantmaking. Our philanthropic services team loves nothing more than working with fundholders to help them take their philanthropic ideas and make them a reality.

It's your fund and we're your staff—let us know what kind of difference you would like to make.



I want to honor my daughter's memory by supporting the people and causes she cared about. How should I start?



How can I give more kids the chance to learn winter sports?

Carly's Kids: A Foundation for Education

Carly Elizabeth Hughes was not your typical young woman. She knew from a young age that her life would be dedicated wholly to the welfare of children. When her life was cut short from gastric cancer at just 24 years old, her mother sought a way for Carly's dedication to children to endure.

We knew this would be a unique fund with specific, forward-looking goals, so we worked collaboratively to establish Carly's Kids: A Foundation for Education. Carly's mother uses the fund to engage other young people and rally support for a school in Mississippi where Carly volunteered. The fund offers the flexibility for Carly's mother to also support educational research for the prevention and treatment of esophageal and gastric cancers. Friends and family have drawn tremendous inspiration from the fund and have a hands-on role in perpetuating Carly's selfless devotion to children.

The Warm Jacket Fund

The National Winter Activity Center in Sussex County provides one-on-one mentoring in winter sports and healthy lifestyle instruction to kids of all ages. But it's half a world away from the communities whose children could most benefit. We worked with donors to create the Warm Jacket Fund which serves as a bridge between these young people and the types of winter sports that get the heart racing and the lungs full of crisp mountain air. On the fund's behalf, we took the lead in contacting schools, creating an application process, and working with administrators to iron out the details. With a lot of effort over a few short weeks, we were able to bring 819 wide-eyed children from New Jersey and the surrounding area out to the ski slopes during the 2015-2016 winter season. The National Winter Activity Center outfitted each child with the latest ski equipment, stylish helmets and gloves, and, of course, warm jackets, so they were safe and comfortable as they experienced the thrill of the slopes.

Partners in Effective Philanthropy

Professional advisors play a critical role in helping their clients understand the good they can do with their wealth during and after their lifetimes. For many advisors, the continuum of support they provide includes entrée to the Community Foundation and our own unique community knowledge and expertise. Together, professional advisors and the Community Foundation are able to work with philanthropic New Jerseyans to create more specialized charitable plans. These relationships have been the centerpiece of the Community Foundation's growth and much of the inspired philanthropy across our state.

Members of the Community Foundation's Legal, Wealth & Tax Advisory Committee are committed to philanthropy in New Jersey and offer their wisdom to support charitable causes across our community.

The Foundation established a fund that drives positive change.

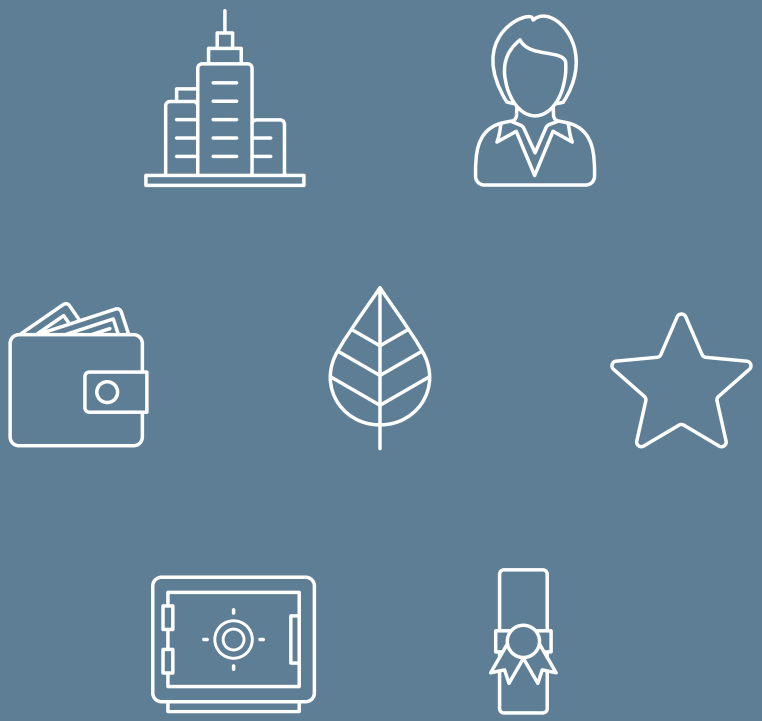
State Senators Tom Kean and Steve Oroho discuss potential tax changes affecting charitable giving.

Preserving a Philanthropic Legacy

When Beatrice Oberkirch Curtis passed away in March 2013, her passing set in motion a series of events that unlocked a generous philanthropic resource for New Jersey. Beatrice's late husband Ralph Curtis had—years before his own death—expressed his wishes to honor the memory of his late daughter and late first wife to his attorneys. Working with his attorneys all these years later, the Community Foundation was able to establish a fund that preserves that philanthropic legacy and has become among the Community Foundation's most active, driving positive change in New Jersey, for social justice issues and recovery.

The Impact of Policy on Philanthropy

Professional advisors often help fundholders understand how national or state-level policy change might have an impact on their philanthropy. The Community Foundation hosted State Senators Tom Kean and Steve Oroho this summer for an engaging discussion on potential changes to the estate tax and the likelihood of a state tax deduction for charitable giving. These issues will drive philanthropy in New Jersey for decades, and our professional advisors and fundholders alike enjoyed the conversation and sharing of viewpoints.



Funds at Work

Behind each fund is a unique inspiration and vision. We provide the flexibility and support that enables more than 1,050 fundholders to give to the issues or communities they care about—now and in the future.

Fifteen years after the Todd Ouida Children's Foundation was created to commemorate Todd's life and help children who struggle with debilitating anxiety, the Foundation continues to attract major local support and change the health services landscape for children in need. The Foundation is steadily improving care around anxiety and other mental health issues by supporting treatment facilities, an art-therapy center, and a summer camp for abused and neglected children. The Foundation also hosts an annual conference at Montclair State University that focuses on the needs of families dealing with childhood anxiety and other stressors.

George and Yvonne Alkemade were passionate about helping the vision-impaired and entrusted the Community Foundation to perpetuate their important work in this area. Since the Alkemades made their bequest, the Community Foundation has distributed thousands of pairs of eyeglasses in Jersey City and Passaic, expanded art and music lessons for vision-impaired students in Newark, and helped construct an all-access playground in Parsippany. George and Yvonne could not have predicted the exact impact of their bequest, but they were confident in the Community Foundation's ability to steward their legacy.

Our annual scholarship breakfast honors graduating high school seniors who were awarded one of the many scholarships offered by fundholders. This year, the Community Foundation distributed more than $1 million from these scholarship funds—making the college dream possible for students across our state. Scholarship funds are as diverse as the students they support, with interests in specific geographies, study areas, or backgrounds.

ShopRite Partners In Caring

Through the ShopRite Partners in Caring Fund, Wakefern Food Corporation has provided nearly $25 million to support to foodbanks across New Jersey and nearby states. On top of this critical support, our favorite part is seeing the local ShopRite employees who raise the most for local food banks featured on the front of a Cheerios box each year.

The Community Foundation helps facilitate Johnson & Johnson's philanthropy across three funds—the Community Health Care Fund, the Somerset County Companies Fund, and the Family of Consumer Companies Fund. Thanks to these funds which have granted millions to core health programs, children are overcoming obesity, diabetes, and oral health challenges—and getting on a path toward a healthier future.

OPEN A FUND

Families and businesses leverage the Community Foundation's resources and expertise toward achieving lasting change in our state and beyond. Our work is in furtherance of our fundholders' explicit or evolving goals, with an eye toward simplifying the giving process and amplifying the impact of that giving. We are with you from inspiration to results.

CREATE A LEGACY

Many fundholders and other members of our community designate the Community Foundation as the beneficiary of their philanthropic funds. In so doing, they signal the trust they place in the Community Foundation's ability to implement their charitable interests in perpetuity and to identify the very best ways to steward their philanthropic legacies.

JOIN OUR WORK

The Community Foundation welcomes fundholders and other community members to actively participate in our Changemaker work. Whether we are reforming NJ's juvenile justice system or fighting human trafficking, we believe when we connect donors' philanthropic interests to critical imperatives in the state and pool their dollars with our own, we can have a great impact on issues that matter.
