

HealtheVoices™ Impact Fund at a Glance – 2019

Health-focused online communities and blogs have come to inspire, educate and mobilize both patients and caregivers. Patients look to them for support and help in managing their condition better. Janssen Pharmaceutical Companies of Johnson & Johnson established this fund at the Community Foundation of New Jersey to support innovative efforts by online health advocates to serve and assist patient communities.

Specifically, the HealtheVoices™ Impact Fund will fund innovative projects that:

- Engage, inform and empower patients
- Coalesce and strengthen the online advocate community
- Create patient communities, combatting stigma and isolation

Grants will be given to new, innovative ideas that best meet the fund objectives and may not be given to fund support existing or ongoing advocate activities.

Evaluation and Selection of Grant Recipients

All requests will be reviewed, evaluated and selected for funding by the Community Foundation of New Jersey with input from a peer advisory committee of experienced patient and caregiver advocates. Representatives from Janssen will not be involved in the review, evaluation or selection of applications for funding.

Projects will be competitively selected for funding based on the perceived impact for patients in areas of high unmet needs. As part of the review and selection process, CFNJ and the advisory committee will review the public profile of each applicant to assess if their online efforts conflict with Johnson & Johnson values, which then would result in an ineligible for funding decision.
